Estill land leased to 3,000 acre ATV park

Park expected to bring tourism opportunities to county

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

More wooded lands will soon be open where local residents and tourists can ride all-terrain vehicles, say county officials.

Estill County Judge-Executive Wallace Taylor said leases have been signed on about 800 acres in Estill County, making them part of a 3,000 acre ATV park within Estill, Powell, Wolfe and Lee Counties.

Negotiations began a little over two years ago, according to Donnie Benton, a project delegate from Powell County who was present at the Estill County Fiscal Court meeting on Monday, October 20, 2014.

Taylor said the facility "could be bigger than Black Mountain," and said it will help develop tourism in both the county and throughout the region.

The fiscal court voted to authorize the lease for the park. Benton said it could be open to the public as soon as this spring.

In other business, the court had no sealed bids to open for the Environmental Impact Study and for core drilling. The court voted to give permission to Fred Rogers to seek competitive pricing for the jobs from at least two sources.

There was one sealed bid for 13 self-contained breathing apparatuses to be used by the fire department. The bid from Dills Fire Equipment was for $67,935, which Fire Chief Muncie called "reasonable." He said the SCBAs retail for about $8,000 each. The equipment will be paid for with a federal grant.

The court voted to postpone the sale of surplus property. Judge Taylor said in the past the court has Estill County Judge Executive Wallace Taylor signed a proclamation declaring October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month on Monday night. He presented it to Morgan Strong Fowler, who was there representing Relay for Life. Fowler said because of Dr. Billie Kelley and Marcum and Wallace Memorial Hospital's "awesome radiology staff," her mother, Kim Miller's breast cancer was detected early. Taylor also reminded that both men and women can get the disease, and that "early detection is key."

Renovations continue at area schools

Personal pride. Self-esteem. Leadership. Confidence. These are the traits members of the JROTC Color Guard say they have gained since becoming a part of the JROTC.

On Thursday, October 16, they were recognized by the Estill County School Board during its regular monthly meeting.

Cadet Tory Barnes said the JROTC competition team, the Raiders, ranks tenth in the nation among about 3,000 schools.

The team recently hosted a competition on their home turf at the high school. Six schools competed with Estill students running the entire competition, from serving as referees, to scorekeepers, to presenting trophies and awards.

Barnes also said the organization is big on community service. They recently set up a rope bridge for the kids at Mountain Crest to play on.

The JROTC is currently working Operation Santa Clause, which will help provide disadvantaged families with Christmas gifts. They also plan to visit the Lexington Children's Hospital to spread some cheer.

Contrary to popular opinion, Barnes explained, the program is not necessarily a recruitment program, but its main focus has evolved into leadership and citizenship.

Highway to be closed on Friday

In order to make repairs to a bridge, the Kentucky Department of Highways plans to close KY 1571 in Estill County on Friday, Oct. 24. The road will be closed at milepost 0.4, at the one-lane bridge crossing Cow Creek just east of Ravenna. The project will begin around 8:30 a.m. and will continue until approximately 2:30 p.m. During this time, the road will be closed to all through traffic. This will impact travel between Lee and Owsley counties and Irvine and Richmond.

No marked detour will be posted, but drivers can use KY 52 as an alternate route. Motorists should plan their trips accordingly.

In case of inclement weather, the closure will be postponed until another suitable day.

progress.

Lisa Reece, Principal at SI P-K, said, "Great things are happening at South Irvine."

She said students scored much higher in school readiness this year, and that reading scores are up. She said math scores aren't as good, but they continue to focus on improving them.

Reece said the center has been chosen for a federal audit beginning in November. It will last until spring, and auditors can come in at any time and visit five separate times. The audit will provide an indication of how the school is measuring up with other schools in the nation.

Jessica Mullins, Principal at ESE, reported that some of the MAP testing data for her school was different, in part because the test was web-based last year instead of read to the students.

She said her staff has implemented common planning dates for teachers in all four wings of the school.

They have also been considering leadership styles of previous school leaders, what worked for them and how to integrate those practices.

Mullins also said the school has received a $2,000 Dollar General Literacy Grant to buy content specific books of different levels.

She spoke of the good working relationship she has with Lisa Reece at South Irvine, and how they are using many of the same programs at both schools to help smooth transitions.

Randall Christopher, who retired as Assistant Superintendent last spring, has been re-hired to work 120 days as Building and Grounds/Food Service Coordinator. He gave an update on construction at the high school.

"Restroom and locker room renovations are 98 percent complete," he said.

He suggested putting ceramic tile on the shower floors because the contractor has decided not to use an epoxy covering.

Christopher went on to detail the next renovation project, which will include installing new bleachers in the high school gym. He said he'd like to see the new bleachers push back to the wall as well as a permanent scorer's table and radio station area built. He also recommended a wireless scoreboard system.

Addressing the renovations at South

Irvine, he said installing one big unit of windows would be difficult because there is a lack of interior infrastructure to support them. However, he said new replacement panes could be installed that would be more energy efficient.

The roof project and freezer/cooler room plans will carry on, and he suggested installing a new ceiling and lights, possibly a new awning outside.

Board member Jon Bicknell was granted a forum to speak to the board. He said "people in the community" have been asking him why all board meetings can't be filmed and recorded for the public to view.

Board member Amy Thomas countered with, "Why don't they come to the meetings if they want to know?"

Bicknell also asked the board to approve having the treasurer's report with the total amount of debt read at the board meetings, and have the duties of the board chair, policy and procedures read at the board meeting.

Superintendent Bert Hensley pointed out that the treasurer's report is part of each month's report that is presented at regular meetings.

Bicknell also brought up reducing board members' pay.

Thomas commented that paying someone to video and record meetings would take away any savings made by cutting board member pay.

No action was taken on Bicknell's suggestions. He said he just wanted to put the information "on the table," because that's what he's been hearing from people in the community.

Consent items approved during the board meeting include:

- Second month Section 6 Allocations were approved.

- A stipend of $1,000 was approved for the High School Science Olympiad coach.

- The treasurer's report and the payment of the bills was approved, as was the formation of a district Budget Committee. The reconciliation statement showed there to be a $5, 278, 554.18 balance in the bank at the end of September. A bonding analysis was also distributed with the report. It stated that the District can support a $4, 765,000 bond issue based on current bonding revenues. That includes the current $1.2 renovation at South Irvine Pre-K.

- Superintendent Bert Hensley announced that teacher Connie Witt has been named state FBLA leader.

- An out-of-state trip request was granted for the Estill Elite jump rope team to travel to Ohio on Nov. 7, Dec. 6, and Jan. 17, 2015.

- Permission was granted for the local Emergency Management System to place early warning sirens on a telephone pole behind the high school tennis courts.

- Notification of personnel actions was approved. Randall Christopher was hired as building and grounds/food service coordinator for 120 days per year, Laura Davis was hired as teacher at Estill Springs, and Brianna Hibbard was hired as teacher at the Middle School.

- Michael Miller was hired as an intermittent traffic controller.

- Extracurricular employment include: Traci Baber, Kristie Turner, and Katie Parker were hired for Leadership Academy at South Irvine, Victoria Barnett, Amy Farmer, Gina Flynn, Charlotte O'Bryan, Jeremy Simpson and Andrea Williams were hired for Leadership Academy at the high school.

- Kristy Floyd and Joe Smith were hired for Leadership Academy at Estill Springs, and Toni-Garrett Hall, Amanda Owens and Brittany Wynn were hired for Leadership Academy at West Irvine.

- Jimmy Bonny was hired as second assistant coach of boys' basketball at the high school. Melissa Kelley was hired as CIITS Coach at Estill Springs, Shauna Murrey was hired as team leader at the middle school, Jeremy Simpson and Cory Stringfield were hired as archery coaches at the high school, Elizabeth Wilson was hired as writing cluster leader at South Irvine, Jeremy Woolery was hired as technology coordinator at Estill Springs, and Samantha Young was hired as yearbook sponsor at the middle school.

- Notifications of resignation came from Hope Aslinger, Colorguard coach at the high school, and Michelle Chandler, media specialist at the middle school.

had to sell items, but this year there is no real need to do so. He recommended the sale be tabled until needed, or until spring.

The court approved appropriation transfers and intrafund transfers. $76,000 was transferred from the general fund to the jail. $32,000 was transferred from the road fund to the general fund.

In other considerations, Judge Taylor said a county road employee has left the department. He recommended hiring two temporary workers to get the road department through the winter months.

He also recommended hiring a part-time person to handle paperwork at the animal shelter and help oversee KTAP employees who also work part time.

Estill County Fire Chief Derrick Muncie brought

new turnout gear to show the court. "Thanks to grants," he said, "we have 25 complete sets."

He also said that it has been an honor to work with paramedic Ron Jackson, who is retiring as director of the Estill County Estill Medical Services.

Tommy Mullen attended the meeting to report on the animal shelter. He said the numbers of animals taken in continues to decline, as they have the two previous years. So have the number of animals euthanized.

Mullen said when he began his job there were 2,200 dogs brought to the shelter the first year, 1,800 the next, and 1,400 this year, with two months to go.

Fifty-two of approximately 1,400 dogs were euthanized this year, a rate of 3.8 percent.

He also said the indoor drop box is now open for those who bring animals to the shelter on the weekend, so people don't have to worry about animals being left outside all night in the cold. There is food and water, as well as heat inside the drop box.

Mullen said that Facebook continues to be an effective tool for finding placement for dogs, cats and other animals.

Judge Taylor read a proclamation recognizing Breast Cancer Awareness Month. He wore a pink robe in honor of the occasion, and noted that early detection is key.

He also expressed deep appreciation for Renee Alexander, who will be moving from Estill County and her position at Westcare soon.

"This community will miss her not only for Westcare, but for all she does," he said.

Taylor too said it has been an honor to work with EMS Director Ron Jackson.

a 5 or 6 on a scale of 1 to 10, as far as scary goes. In the dark, being led by a guide with a flashlight, the scare factor rises to possibly an eight or a nine.

He said, "If your kid is comfortable watching the Walking Dead," they can probably handle it."

Rogers also said he is making arrangements to have a sheriff's deputy and other emergency organizations nearby to provide a safety net for the Halloween happenings.

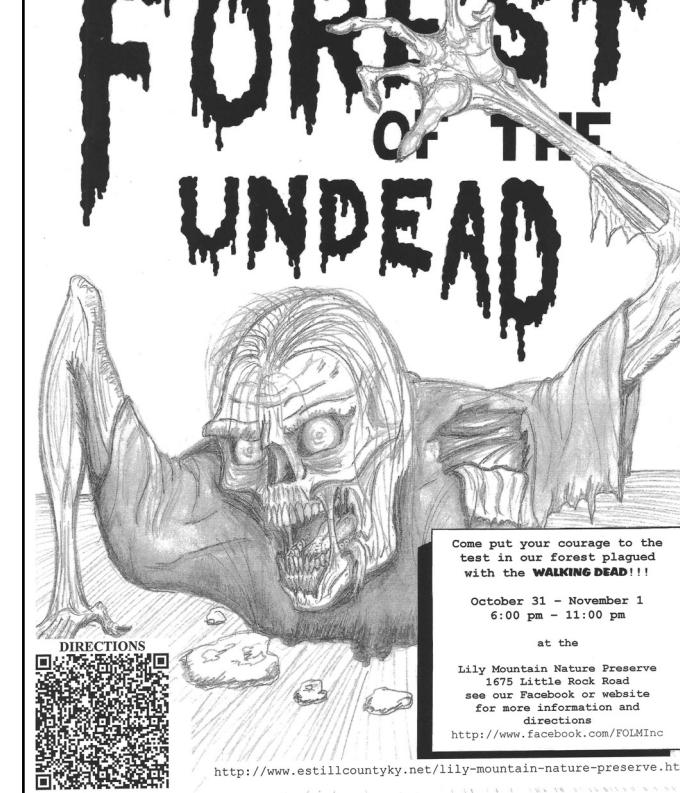

There are two ways of getting there, said Rogers. The address is 1675 Little Rock Road, and folks can follow Wisemantown Road (Route 499) all the way to Little Rock Road. However, Rogers said, the road is curvier that way.

They can also turn onto Regis Road off Highway 52, and take it until it dead ends into Dug Hill Road (499), turn right, then keep going until they reach the last road to turn to the left just before the small bridge that crosses into Madison County.

There will be signs and volunteers from service agencies at Eastern Kentucky University as well as local youth groups to assist with the event.

The Zombie Walk event costs $5. All proceeds will go for the benefit, management and promotion of the Lily Mountain Nature Preserve.

The preserve is 350 acres located in southwestern Estill County. It was purchased by the Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund in 2011 with funds from the sale of "Nature's Finest" license plates. Funds also came from environmental fines, such as those from big power plants, for example.

Vote should be an investment in future of our children

By Robbie Starling

Vice Chairman of the School Board

There are many important elections that will take place on Tuesday, November 4, 2014. Two locally important elections are those for School Board Member of Estill County, for the third and fifth districts.

In my opinion, there is not a greater investment to be made for Estill County's future than the investment in our children. The school, partnered with the parents/guardians of the children, are to provide the preparation to help our children grow to be responsible, self-sufficient citizens equipped to pursue their educational and vocational desires. In voting for a candidate for School Board Member, please keep in mind the following statement of ethics that each school board member vows to uphold:

Code of Ethical Conduct for Local School Board Members

(Adopted and endorsed by KSBA Board of Directors, September 2013)

As a member of the local board of education, acknowledging that my actions must be centered on the educational welfare of all students, I shall adhere to the following ethical standards:

Be fair, just and impartial in all of the decisions as a school board member

Come to every meeting prepared for the work to be undertaken at that session

Accord other members, parents and the community with respect

Seek involvement in my decision making by those I have been elected to represent

Uphold all laws, regulations and final court orders pertaining to schools and related-processes

Be honest with my colleagues, district personnel, my constituents and other interested parties

Respect the professional expertise of district staff in the management of our schools

Ensure the prudent and accountable use of the district's resources and finances

Listen to other points of view with an open mind

Pursue opportunities to improve my knowledge of educational issues and board skills

Refuse to surrender my judgment to any individual or group at the expense of the district

Keep confidential any information that is privileged under Kentucky law or board policy

Recognize the scope of my role as a board member and that of the board as a whole

Work collaboratively with fellow board members to adopt and apply board policies

Refer issues requiring administrative action to the appropriate school or district authority

Refrain from actions which would encroach on the assigned responsibilities of school personnel

Avoid conflicts of interest as well as any public appearances of conflicts with my office

Express my personal opinion but upon final board action accept the will of the majority

Make no promise or take individual steps that may impede the ethical performance of my duties

Regardless of which candidate you favor, please vote on Tuesday, November 4, 2014, for the candidate who you believe will make an investment in Estill County's future by putting our children first.

They work for you.

Walk in their shoes, says columnist

By Roger Smith

I'm a CEO with a GED, and I have walked in the shoes of a minimum wage worker. I know from experience that it's a tougher road today.

The minimum wage buys fewer necessities now than it did when I needed it to survive. And as a successful capitalist, it pains me to see that the American Dream, which so inspired me, is increasingly out of reach.

As a young boy, I knew all too well the despair of empty pockets. I learned to be resourceful, making money by selling my most precious possessions. The sound of change in my pocket gave me hope.

From ages 15 to 18, I was homeless. I did what I had to do to survive and put money in my pocket. I worked under the table as a day laborer, toiled in pool halls, bussed tables and worked a variety of minimum-wage jobs.

I saw the minimum wage as a temporary entry wage. I believed that if I worked hard and played by the rules, I'd eventually get ahead. The scales weren't as tipped against workers as they are today.

It was a time in America when a homeless kid with a GED could still find opportunities and a path to living the American Dream. It was a time in America, when millions were rising into the middle class, not falling out of it.

My path to living the American Dream has been through a 37-year career with American Income Life. I started as a life insurance agent and worked my way up to my current position as CEO.

Our company culture remains one of creating shared prosperity and providing opportunity unlimited. We are proof that businesses can profit and grow by paying a fair wage and providing a pathway to the American Dream for employees.

For me and so many others of my generation, the minimum wage was just the first of many rungs on a career ladder. But too many workers today find themselves running in place on a treadmill -- stuck in low-wage jobs without real opportunity.

Today's federal minimum wage has less buying power than it did when I was a homeless teen in the 1960s.

The minimum wage hit its high point in value around the time I most needed it. At its peak in 1968, the minimum wage was worth $10.96, adjusted for inflation. That's way more than today's federal minimum wage -- stuck at $7.25 since 2009.

The $3.71 difference between the minimum wage in 1968 and today isn't pocket change. It adds up to $7,717 over the course of a year for full-time workers.

For millions of Americans, the minimum wage is no longer a temporary entry-level wage, but a longtime wage that locks them and their families into poverty and undermines the consumer demand that drives our economy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

This letter is to all the good people of Ravenna as we prepare to make a landmark decision this year when we go to the polls to vote on Tuesday, November 4th, 2014.

First of all, I want to make it perfectly clear to all the residents of Ravenna that this could be one of the most important votes that you will ever cast. This vote is for the life or death of the "City of Ravenna." I have no intention of telling, asking or hinting as to how you should vote on the question that is being put forth on the voting ballot on Tuesday, November 4, regarding the merger between Irvine and Ravenna. I think that you are all perfectly capable of making your own decisions. A "NO" vote lets our city live, whereas a "YES" vote gives our city to Irvine. All I want to do is clarify a fact that some foresee as gloom and doom for our fair city. Ravenna is fighting back from a problem that many small towns and many larger cities are having today; it is called "inherited debt."

Ever since Estine Tipton became mayor, she has made it a point to make no new debts and to use any and all surplus city money to pay off these bills that she inherited. At this time, most of the debt has been taken care of, and the remaining has been combined into a once-monthly payment that the city can comfortably take care of.

I believe, from my own experience, that we can once again be a debt-free city because years ago, when I was elected as Mayor of Ravenna, I also inherited a city in debt, but by careful management, frugal spending practices, and a dedicated council, we got our head above water and went on to being free of debt.

Mayor Tipton is doing a wonderful job as mayor, and her long hours and careful money management are paying off. We are coming back from being a "city in the red" and will soon be a "city in the black". These things do not happen overnight, but they are happening because of wise decisions made by our mayor.

Ravenna is proud of its heritage, and it is once again beginning to see the light of day. Our Veteran's Memorial Park is a thing of beauty and certainly a landmark that we can all be proud of. In September the city of Ravenna hosted another "Railroad Festival". It was a great success and if the election works out in a positive fashion it will be even better next year.

The park is a huge plus for the city and the mayor's management ability has made it self-sufficient. Mayor Tipton is responsible for another new grant that will remodel and or build at least eight new houses that will enrich the lives of more families and bring in added revenue. Ravenna is blessed with a mayor who is not afraid to work and that is why the park and city always look so well kept. Many hours are spent to keep the city beautiful, and the credit goes to our mayor. Ravenna is blessed with a mayor that is quite capable of doing her job and that works every day to make Ravenna a better place for us all.

We are all so lucky to live in this city. We are not just a number in a book; we are real people with real faces and real names. We have neighbors who look out for us and come to us when we are in need. We are citizens of a loving and caring city, and we are important to any and all who are lucky enough to be able to say, "I live in Ravenna, Kentucky, USA." We are a small town with a big heart.

I am pleased to be able to leave you with this good news about our city's finances. I am hopeful that this information has been helpful and that when you cast your vote on Tuesday, November 4, you will be able to make a more comfortable and educated decision regarding the life or death of our city. This decision is yours and yours alone.

You must decide: does Ravenna live or die? Thank you for your time and God Bless each and every one of you today, tomorrow and forever.

Sincerely, Beverly Thompson

Raising the minimum wage makes good economic sense. Many business leaders want to see it increased.

As a successful CEO, I was not surprised to see a recent national poll released by the American Sustainable Business Council and Business for a Fair Minimum Wage. It found that 61 percent of small-business owners with employees favor raising the minimum wage to $10.10 and then adjusting it annually to keep pace with the cost of living.

Business owners see the practical effects of raising the minimum wage. As consumers, workers with money in their pockets provide a boost to sales at Main Street businesses. A higher wage also positively affects internal functions like employee retention, employee morale and quality of service provided to customers.

Raising the minimum wage makes good economic sense, but it's much more than that.

You cannot have a strong economy or fulfill the promise of the American Dream when most Americans are running in place or falling behind while the richest Americans pull further away from the rest.

Raising the minimum wage to $10.10 an hour would benefit 28 million workers with an average age of 35 years old. Many of them have more formal education than me.

Raising the minimum wage is a crucial first step to restoring the shattered American Dream. The same American Dream that gave a homeless kid with a GED a chance to succeed.

Smith is president and CEO of American Income Life Insurance Company.

Dear Editor,

Estill County is saying "Good Bye" to a great Paramedic, Ron Jackson. Ron is Director of the Estill County EMS and has been with EMS for over twenty years. Under Ron's leadership, Estill County Emergency Medical Services has grown tremendously and we are very fortunate to have such a great service that provides quality emergency care to the community. We know that in a time of need, each person requiring emergency medical services will receive excellent care from the Estill County EMS team. Ron and

WestCare director: Uplifting the Human Spirit

By Rodney Davis

CV&T Guest Columnist

The motto for the WestCare Foundation is "Uplifting the Human Spirit" and it is an organization whose sole purpose is to provide people hope for a life free of behavioral health issues, such as addiction, that may be affecting them or their loved ones. Renee Alexander personifies this motto and purpose as well as anyone I know. I have had the great opportunity of working closely with Renee on many issues facing our community not the least of which has been her work on addiction and rehabilitation while at WestCare Kentucky.

Many of you know that Renee has recently married and will be leaving WestCare and Estill County. In fact, our last community council meeting with Renee will be this week. She will be sorely missed by not only everyone that has worked with her but also the many people she has helped while she has been at WestCare. She has worked tirelessly as an advocate for people with addiction issues and has never sought any type of acknowledgement for her dedicated work. I simply cannot let her leave us without such an acknowledgement. These are just a few of the things that Renee has been able to accomplish while at WestCare:

She worked closely with the Estill County Fiscal Court, and other agencies, to create the sober living apartments at the WestCare facility. These apartments have been a first step in recovery and sober living for many people in Estill County. They have served to unite many a family that had no place to live due to an addicted parent or guardian.

She was instrumental in establishing substance abuse counseling and alcohol counseling in the community that was made available to everyone regardless of background or finances.

She was involved in establishing several jail recovery programs in Kentucky that provide inmates with intensive substance abuse counseling that would have been otherwise unavailable to them. These programs focused on allowing inmates an opportunity to use their time of incarceration in a productive manner to focus on their substance abuse issues.

She was responsible for implementing a day reporting program in Estill County that was a joint program with the Estill County Fiscal Court, the Estill County Attorney and the Estill County Judicial System. This program is an alternative to incarceration for defendants with substance abuse issues that allows these defendants to report daily for counseling, work and random drug testing.

Not only has this program literally saved lives in this community it has also saved our county tens of thousands of dollars in jail expenses. I don't know that we still completely understand the "ripple affect" that this program will have on both the Defendants and their families, but I do understand that without Renee's efforts this program would not have been possible.

I know Renee would never seek any type of personal credit for these accomplishments. However, I believe she is well deserving of such credit and acknowledgement for what she has accomplished. When you see Renee please tell her "thanks" for all that she has done. I believe that the mission of WestCare in Kentucky and Estill County is strong and will remain after Renee leaves, but it will have lost one of its biggest assets.

Renee—again thanks for all you have done from both myself and the staff of the Estill County Attorney's Office. Also, good luck in all your future undertakings. You have our prayers for your success!

Columnist recalls trips to Estill Springs

By Beverly Thompson

CV&T Guest Columnist

Daddy and I spent a lot of time together and one of our favorite walks was to the Estill Springs. After the property had changed hands many times, Lena Wallace had bought the remaining property from Dr. Hume, and she built a beautiful home in the picturesque setting, which is still standing there today. The springs were on the Lena Wallace property and Daddy had permission to go there as often as we wished to go. It had a flat rock floor and a wooden roof which had been purposely built to protect the two tree trunks. Each had a water spigot driven back in their trunk and the refreshing cool sulfur water ran out of them constantly. The tree trunks were more than ten foot around and about five foot tall. We always took salt with us and a pint jar to drink out of. The medicinal properties of the water were well known. The spring in the far back was white sulfur and the one closest to the front was black sulfur, after drinking from both, daddy and I always preferred the white sulfur in the far back.

In the mid eighteen hundreds there was a beautiful hotel on the property and people came from many miles away to drink from the springs and then to spend some time as a guest of the hotel. Estill

County not only had the sulfur springs but it was well known for its beautiful landscapes. The Kentucky River was less than a mile away and at times there were numerous houseboats tied up at the "South Irvine Boat Dock." On rare occasions some of the boats had a gathering of some fine gentlemen who sometimes indulged in some very interesting and long card games.

Between 1908 and 1913, an artist, Paul Sawyier, visited friends in Estill County and he painted watercolor scenes while visiting in our county. "Springtime," "Summertime," and "Sweet Lick Mountain," have been preserved in numbered prints. Two of these beautiful prints are sold out and no longer available on the open market but Bryant's Paint Store in Ravenna may still have a few of "Sweet Lick Mountain." These pictures gave us a rare glimpse of the unspoiled beauty of our county through the eyes and the thoughtful brush strokes of a young talented gentleman who died way too young of a sudden heart attack. He passed away in 1917 at the early age of 52, only four years after visiting our county.

Long before our ancestors came to Kentucky the Shawnee Indians lived in relative peace in an encampment on the banks of the Station Camp Creek and enjoyed the water of the springs that bubbled from the ground. The Shawnee's realized that the water had a certain medicinal effect and supposedly used it in many of their cures. Even though the water has the distinctive smell of rotten eggs I always thought it tasted good. Daddy and I spent many lazy evenings sipping the water and talking about things that he thought were important for me to know. He made it a point for me to understand that everyone should be treated the same. He said it was wrong that some people felt that they were better than others. He said that God saw us all as the same.

Walter Welch was the first owner of the Sweet Springs which was said to have been close to four hundred acres. Green Clay bought the property in later years and downtown Irvine is situated on part of the original plot. John Chiles bought the property in 1848 and changed the name from Sweet Springs to Estill Springs. He built the beautiful hotel and spa which made the springs a landmark for the rich and famous. The years passed, the war between the North and South began and ended, ownership changed hands many times and finally Harvey Riddell bought the property. In due time he sold part of it as building lots which became known as "The Sweet Springs Addition" where all my friends and I were born and grew up. Most of the streets are named after his family members.

None of us can possibly remember the great fire of December 14th, 1924 that reduced the iconic hotel to burning embers and finally only blackened ashes that have since been blown away by the winds of time. This was the end of an era that would never be recaptured. Most of us had not been born, but as we became aware of the history of our neighborhood we took great pride in "The Sweet Springs Addition" and believed that we had been a part of history. Never in all the years that we visited the Estill Springs did I ever see a scrap of paper or trash of any kind. We were honored to be able to go there and no one would ever be guilty of defiling it in any way. We were fortunate to be able to partake of the water and be able to sit in silence and enjoy the beauty of this Estill County landmark. Wooden benches had been built around the spring area and you could sit there for hours and watch the birds that abounded at the site. There was a huge fish pond on the far side of the spring area and many happy hours were spent there just watching the gold fish swimming in the deep pool. There was never a visit that you did not see hundreds of birds. It was like a wildlife sanctuary and all the rabbits and squirrels played in the green grass and never felt the least bit threatened. We were never allowed to leave the springs area or get in the grass. We all followed the rules and therefore we were able to visit often and be able to witness a part of nature that had been preserved by caring owners.

In 1975 I spent three days sketching and painting a water color of the springs. I was glad that I got to do it before the restoration. I was able to capture the time worn hole in the roof and the blue sky that filtered through. The springs hold sweet memories for me of the many times that daddy and I went there together. I guess I will always be a daddy girl. Even though he is gone his memory remains in my heart. I went there often after his death and could always feel a sense of peace and closeness to my daddy.

I encourage each and every one of you to spend more time with your families. Every thing that you do together and every story that you share with them will someday be the link to you and to days gone by. You will never be forgotten and you will always bring smiles to their faces. Their memory of you will be the most precious part of their childhood. Make a sweet memory today and it will last forever.

Be a memory maker.

An Encouraging
Word: You can make a difference

By Howard Coop

On Thursday morning, July 7, 1949, I was busy at my desk preparing for Sunday services when I heard footsteps on the front porch. Without knocking, a boy who had just finished his junior year in high school and had asked me to help him find a summer job entered the room. He took a seat and without any conversation began to read the newspaper.

Although he was an orphan boy who wore old faded jeans out of necessity long before faded jeans were popular, he was an unusually brilliant student who often came to the house and took one of the more difficult books of theology from my shelf and eagerly read it. After several minutes, he laid the newspaper aside and said, "I know what I'm going to do." Making an assumption, I said, "You have a summer job?"

"No," he answered, "I'm still looking, but I know what I'm going to do. You have made a difference in my life, and I am going to be a minister just like you. I want you to baptize me this coming Sunday."

In a few weeks, I moved to another community and lost contact with my young friend. But eleven years later we re-established contact. At that point he was finishing his Master's degree and working at the college as an Instructor. After receiving his degree, he served as pastor for a few years after which he became Chaplain in a church related college.

Then, he became a professor and taught for the rest of his life. A short time before he died, he called me, and we had a long conversation. During that conversation he told me what our friendship had meant to him, and he reminded me again that I had made a difference in his life. The calendar doesn't note it, but Saturday, October 25, is Make A Difference Day, a day set aside to do something to improve the lives of others. You can make a difference in somebody's life.

RE-ELECT RODNEY G. DAVIS ESTILL COUNTY ATTORNEY

PROMISES MADE, PROMISES KEPT

Keeping promises to the Citizens of Estill County by taking action not words:

• Our latest DUI conviction rate is 91.1%. Prior to my taking office the conviction rate was 66.7%. Since I have been in office this conviction rate has averaged 90%.

PROMISE KEPT!

• We have filed answers in every civil case where the county was named as a defendant and was properly served including more than 240 cases involving delinquent taxes. As a result we have collected over 2.5 million dollars in delinquent taxes that help support our schools, libraries and other taxing districts.

PROMISE KEPT!

• No criminal cases have been dismissed in district court for the failure of the Commonwealth or prosecutor to produce the required evidence.

PROMISE KEPT!

• We have collected over $190,000.00 in cold checks and paid merchants almost $32,000.00 in merchant fees for cold checks.

PROMISE KEPT!

• We have aggressively prosecuted defendants that violated the terms of their plea agreements by filing over 575 motions to revoke probation or conditionally discharged jail time.

PROMISE KEPT!

• Our office has been on call 24 hours, seven days a week for law enforcement to obtain search warrants, emergency mental health warrants or to simply ask for direction on a particular issue.

PROMISE KEPT!

• Our office is open Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. to allow citizens an opportunity to do business outside of the normal work week.

PROMISE KEPT!

• We have drafted legal documents for hundreds of thousands of dollars in grant applications that have brought both equipment and money to Estill County to better the community.

PROMISE KEPT!

• I have actually drafted all the ordinances and regulations for Estill County during the last eight years. A review of the records of the Estill County Court Clerk's Office will show that no other attorney, including my opponent, has drafted a single ordinance or regulation for Estill County.

PROMISE KEPT!

Sherrard's closes doors; Johnsons' excited about their new space

Above, a moving truck takes away the last of the merchandise from Sherrard's Jewelry retail store. Bobby and Hazel Jo Sherrard occupied the address of 139 Main Street for 45 years and 11 months. Bobby says he will miss the people stopping in to say hello throughout his years there, but will never forget the many friends he made along the way.

Above photo, Bobby Sherrard chats with Wayne Johnson, one half of the new owners of the property. Wayne's wife, Lavotus isn't pictured. They will be moving their business L & W Sewing Basket and Cut on Main Salon into this location. The Johnson's are excited about the move and anticipate being moved into the new place sometime next week.

Arrest on warrant leads to additional charges

A Stanton woman arrested on a Rockcastle County warrant last week was also charged with shoplifting and two drug charges in Estill County last week.

Daisy J. Sparks, 34, of 580 Lower Hatchers Creek, Stanton, was arrested on a Rockcastle County e-warrant for possessing a controlled substance and tampering with physical evidence.

Sparks was seen placing items in her bag while shopping at the Family Dollar Store in Irvine.

Couponing 101 - Surviving the Economic Crunch

You've heard the arguments:

"Coupon clipping and organizing are too complicated and time consuming" or,
"If I use coupons I buy things I don't need or want."

But face it, coupons are essentially free money! With a little time, effort, and self-control you can reap substantial savings by using coupons.

Chelsea Bicknell, Estill County's Family and Consumer Sciences Extension Agent, will share pointers on finding coupons, getting organized, coupon lingo, and coupon etiquette.

For more information, call the Estill County Cooperative Extension Office at (606) 723-4557. Everyone is invited and welcome to attend!

Estill County Lions Club

The Estill County Lions Club will meet on the first and third Tuesday of every month at Rader's River Restaurant. The meal is at 6:30 p.m. and the business meeting begins at 7 p.m. Estill County Lions Club is part of Lions Club International, with 1.35 million members in 205 countries around the world. We invite those who feel a call to make our community a better place through service to attend and learn about how Lions around the world earn our motto, "We Serve"...

Alcoholics Anonymous

AA Alcoholics Anonymous meets Tuesday through Sunday at 8 p.m. on 167 Broadway. There are no dues or fees.

Estill County Board of Health

The Estill County Board of Health will be meeting at Radar's River Grill on Monday, October 27, at noon.

Lions Pancake Breakfast

The Estill County Lions Club will hold their Fall Pancake Breakfast on Saturday, October 25, from 7 to 11:30 a.m. at the First Christian Church on Main Street in Irvine. The menu includes pancakes, scrambled eggs, sausage, bacon, milk, orange juice and coffee. Adult tickets are still $5, children under age 10 are $3, and under age 3 are free. Come have a good breakfast and help Estill Countian's with the gift of sight!

Twin City Kruzers

Twin City Kruzers will have their next monthly meeting on Monday, November 3 at 7 p.m. in Irvine City Hall. Anyone interested in joining needs to come to the next meeting. On November 3 we will be nominating officers for the upcoming year 2015. Any member interested in an office needs to be present. We will elect officers on Monday, December 1 at Irvine City Hall. Twin City Kruzers would like to thank everyone that came to our Cruise-Ins this year and look forward to the Cruise-Ins in 2015. Our Toys for Tots Cruise-In was very successful this year thanks to all who attended. For more information, contact Kenneth Tipton 723-7554 or Darrell Hall 723-3612.

Community Chorus

The Estill County Community Chorus has announced the date for their Christmas Concert. The concert will be held Sunday December 7 at 3 p.m. and will be performed at First Baptist Church, 351 Broadway, Irvine. The Irvine United Methodist Church Handbell Choir as well as the Estill County Dulcimer Club will also be on the program. Rehearsals are held Thursdays at 7 p.m. at First Christian Church, Main Street, Irvine. Everyone is welcome! Auditions are not required. Rehearsals will be every Thursday night, except October 30 and Thanksgiving, November 27. Please come out and join us. The Estill Arts Council has once again partnered with the Community Chorus for this endeavor. Donations will be accepted at the concert. These donations help to provide honorariums, when needed, as well as the purchase of music. Carol Anne Wilson is the Director with Nancy Farmer as the accompanist. Ann Siudmak will be assisting with rehearsals as needed. If you have sung with the chorus before we are asking that you come back and sing with us for this very special Christmas Concert. Scholarships are still available. Please see Carol Anne Thursday night or call her at 859-556-0163 for more information.

Trick or Treat Trot

FBLA presents Trick or Treat Trot on October 30, 2014. The event will be on Broadway and Court Street to Estill Avenue from 6 to 8 p.m. Registration forms can be sent to Samantha Puckett at the Estill County High School at 397 Engineer Drive, Irvine, Kentucky, 40336 or they may be emailed to connie.witt@estill.kyschools.us. The theme for this year's event is "Super Heros."

Halloween events at the Estill County Library

Estill County Public Library offers up a month of monsters, mutants, ghosts and demons with programs for families, adults and teens this October. On Friday, October 24, at 6:00 p.m., back by demand, Ghost Hunter Patti Starr will present on ghost hunting in Kentucky, complete with images and sounds she's collected from her years of field experience. Space is available on a first come, first serve. Those ages six to twelve are invited to the library's first Tween Halloween Party on Saturday, October 25, from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., featuring Halloween games, food, and a costume contest. For more information, contact Whitney at (606) 723-3030. For more information on any of the library's programs, please call (606) 723-3030.

FBLA's Light Up Rivertown

FBLA will once again organize Irvine's Light Up Rivertown. The event will begin with a Craft/Christmas Fair in the Court House on November 22, 2014. Booth spots are limited and are already beginning to fill up. Entertainment will be provided throughout the day on the Court House steps, Gingerbread Houses can be entered for prizes, the town tree will be decorated with ornaments made by children from Estill County, and a Tree Lighting Service will be held at 6:00 p.m. to conclude the day. Santa will be on hand for pictures, a Horse and Carriage will be available for rides around the Court House, and there will be other surprises throughout the day. Local businesses are encouraged to participate by hosting open houses or other activities as well. Anyone wishing to reserve a spot for the Christmas Fair or a time to perform should call the Estill County High School at 606-723-3537.

Estill Arts Council's Arts & Crafts Show

Looking for a place to offer your original, handmade items for sale? The Estill Arts Council invites you to participate in the 11th annual Arts & Crafts Show on Dec. 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Central Office gym. The show offers an opportunity for people to meet their shopping needs with the perfect, unique gift such as home decor, holiday decorations, wreaths, jewelry, clothing, products for the home, and baked goods.

Area artists and craftsmen can get an application form from the Citizens Guaranty Bank (River Drive), Estill County Public Library, Ravenna Greenhouse or on EAC's Facebook page. The cost of a 10" x 10" space will be $15 for Estill Arts Council members and $20 for non-Estill Arts Council members before Nov. 8. Entries postmarked after November 7 will be an additional $10. For more information call 606-723-4678 or 606-723-5694.

NOTICE OF SALE

By virtue of Judgment and Order of Sale by the Estill Circuit Court in the above cause, I will, on Wednesday November 12, 2014 at the hour of 9:30 a.m., at the Courthouse door in Irvine, Estill County, Kentucky, offer the respective interests of the above parties in the following described properties for sale at public auction, to-wit:

Property Description:

Property Address: 1485 Pea Ridge Rd, Irvine, KY 40336

TRACT 1:

Beginning on the Rice Station and Wisemantown Road in the line of Billy Milford; thence with said road a southerly direction 100 feet; thence a straight line back 150 feet parallel with the line of said Milford; thence in a northerly direction 100 feet to the line of said Milford and with his line to the beginning, being a lot 100 feet by 150 feet.

LESS and EXCEPTING 30 feet left and 30 feet right of the proposed centerline of relocated Kentucky 594 (Sand-Blackburn Road) commonly known as Pea Ridge Road and additional width where necessary for the construction as perpetual maintenance of the relocated road.

TRACT 2:

Beginning on the Pea Ridge Road at a point 180 feet south of a cedar tree being the corner of the farm of Earl Rice; thence 60 feet in a southerly direction and parallel with the Pea Ridge Road, thence 150 in a westerly direction; thence 60 feet in a northerly direction; thence 150 feet east in a straight line, to the point of beginning.

TRACT 3:

Beginning at a point at the Pea Ridge Road, stone marker; thence with said road a distance of fifty feet to a corner, stone marker; thence running back a straight line 150 feet to a corner, stone marker; thence a straight line 50 feet to a corner with Vernon hunt line; thence with the Hunt property line a straight line back 150 feet to the point of beginning.

Being the same property conveyed to Wanda Shaffer, single, by deed dated October 16, 2007, and recorded in Deed Book D271, Page 304 in the Estill County Clerk's Office.

Subject to any and all applicable restrictive covenants, existing easements, utility easement, right-of-way, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any. Also regulation that might apply thru planning & zoning.

The above described property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The purchaser shall take the sale real estate free and clear of the claims of the parties to this action, but it shall be sold subject to the following:

- a. current year (2014) ad valorem real estate taxes affecting the real estate for which the purchaser shall take no credit on the purchase price;
- b. easements, restrictions, and stipulations of record;
- c. any current assessments for public improvements levied against the property; and
- d. any matters which would be disclosed by an accurate survey or inspection of the property.

2. The sale shall be made to the highest and best bidder or bidders. The successful bidder shall pay cash or make a deposit of ten (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. Any purchaser, other than the Plaintiff, who does not pay cash in full, shall be required to execute a bond, with surety thereon acceptable to the Master Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price and sale bond shall bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid, and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the property until paid. The purchasers shall have the privilege of paying all of the balance of the purchase price prior to the expiration of the thirty (30) day period.

3. The successful bidder at sale, at bidder's own expense, may carry fire and extended insurance coverage on the improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, in an amount at least sufficient to cover a loss to the extent of the court appraised value of the improvements on the real estate or the unpaid balance of the purchase price is fully paid, in the amount whichever is less, with the loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance coverage shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability there under, but shall entitle, but not require, any party adjudicated an interest in the real estate, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish evidence of the policy to the Master Commissioner. The premium of the insurance policy shall then be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost.

Woody and Chloe: 'We're All Ears'

Written by Leigh Anne Florence and illustrated by
Chris Ware

Chapter 6

Chloe loved my brilliant idea of browsing through Mr. B.'s books and newspapers to find recipes that would remind him of home. Chloe had chosen the recipes. We would begin preparing them around 5 p.m. so they'd be ready for our 6 p.m. dinner. Mom said Chloe and I could do it by ourselves as long as we cleaned up the mess.

"Mr. B., what a surprise," we exclaimed, when Mr. B. arrived seven hours before dinner!

"Surprise?" Mr. B. asked. "Didn't you invite me to dinner today? Where I'm from, dinner's at noon and supper's in the evening."

"If you eat dinner at noon, when do you eat lunch?" I asked, hoping there were four meals a day instead of three.

"We only eat lunch if we eat dinner at night," Mr. B. replied.

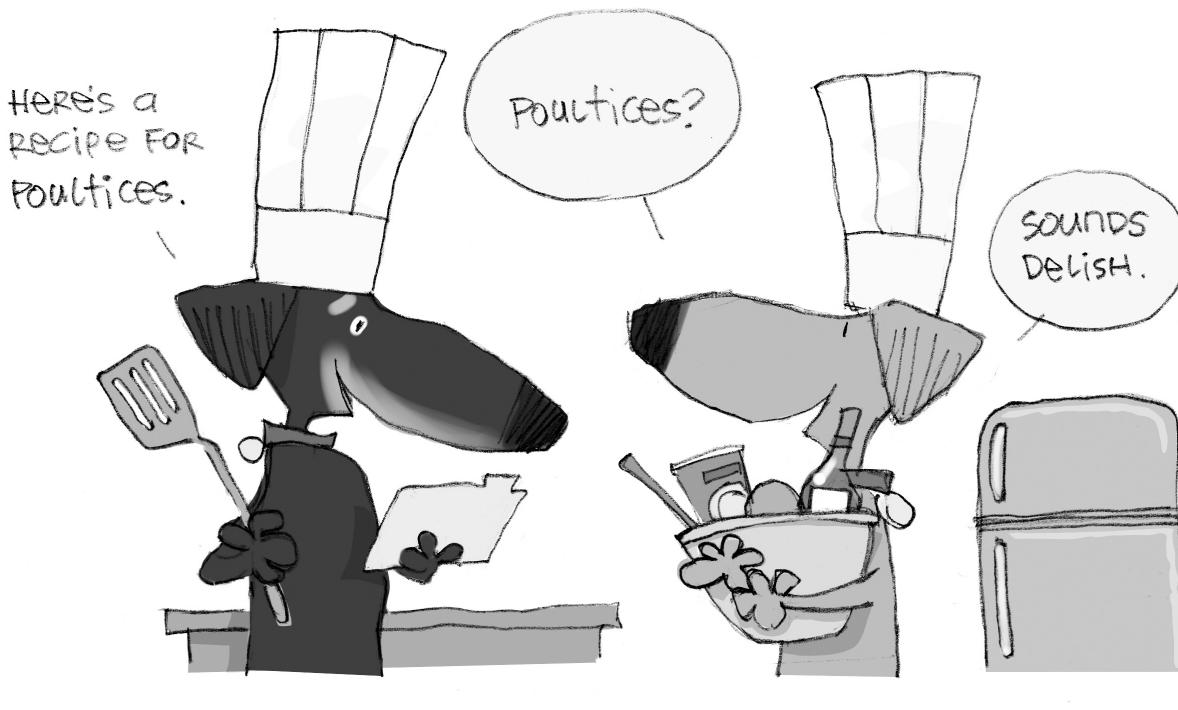

"Excuse me?" Dad said.

"Pups," Mom said, "you two go ahead and start preparing the meal. Your dad, Mr. B. and I are going upstairs to the family room and visit. If you need something, call me. Oh, and remember, don't put anything metal in the microwave, Mom added, referring to the time I put an entire can of green beans in the microwave, causing a kitchen fire and ruining the appliance.

"What are we going to whip up?" I asked Chloe, hoping the answer was steak and ice cream.

"I chose several recipes for poultices. I'm not exactly sure what a poultice is, but I bet it's like poultry. It's probably a chicken or a hen. Anyway, let's serve a few poultices for dinner."

"That sounds scrumptious, Chloe!" I replied. Chloe handed me the newspaper with a feature article called "Best Poultices in Kentucky." I read the recipes Chloe had chosen.

"I want to keep our meal well-balanced, Chloe stated. "Since the poultice is a bird, we have our meat, so I chose garlic poultice, an apple-walnut poultice and a carrot poultice. Don't forget, Woody, Mom made a homemade peach pie for dessert."

We carefully read the directions and measured the ingredients.

"These recipes look small," Chloe said. "Let's triple the recipe."

"It'll take too long to make each recipe three times," I replied.

"We don't make it three times. We use three times the amount of ingredients to feed three times the amount of people," Chloe explained. "If the recipe calls for one cup of carrots, we'll use three. For two teaspoons of cinnamon, we'll use six."

"I knew that," I said rather smugly.

As we worked together, we heard the sound of a beautiful instrument flowing from upstairs. It sounded like a piano and like that instrument angels play. I think it's called a harp. We listened to Mr. B. singing Sourwood Mountain. Chloe and I do-si-do'd around the table as we set it just like Mom taught us -- plates in the middle, salad fork then dinner fork on the left of the plate, and knife then spoon on the right. We filled glasses of sweet tea for the adults and water for Chloe and me. We had a candle on the table but couldn't light it since Mom didn't let us play with matches. It was beautiful.

Chloe had read that people used to ring dinner bells to let everyone know when the meal was ready. We didn't have a real dinner bell, so she pulled out an old, wind-up alarm clock and made the bell ring. In her sweet voice, she said, "Soup's on!!"

Mom, Dad, Mr. B., Chloe, and I all took our places at the table. When everyone was settled, Chloe announced the entrees.

"Well lookee here!" Mr. B. said with a twinkle. "Not only will our bellies be full, but we won't have sore throat, runny nose, upset stomach and the like for a long time. I've had plenty of poultices in my day, but I must say I've never eaten them for dinner. We lived 22 miles from the nearest doctor, and that was by horseback. If someone got sick he had to do the best he could with what he had. Everybody grew plants and herbs and used them to make their own home remedies -- or poultices. It was like the ol' Jack Tales; home remedies were just handed down from generation to generation."

"You mean Chloe and I prepared medicine?" I asked as Mom dialed the pizza delivery man.

"Sure 'nuff!" Mr. B. replied. "But I bet those are the tastiest poultices ever!"

Throughout dinner Mr. B. shared stories about growing up in Appalachia. When we finished our pizza and breadsticks, he asked us to come upstairs. "We can eat that peach pie after we sit a spell," he said. "You're gonna go hog wild over what I'm about to show you."

Fall breeding season increases deer movement

Cooler temperatures and shorter days bring out the fall colors that paint Kentucky's landscape in warm hues before winter arrives.

At about the same time, the breeding instinct in whitetail deer stirs, putting them on the move and more frequently into the paths of motorists.

About half of all collisions between vehicles and deer in Kentucky occur over the last three months of the calendar year, according to statistics compiled by Kentucky State Police. More of these collisions are reported in November than in any other month.

"October, November and December make up the main breeding season for whitetail deer," said Gabe Jenkins, deer and elk program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "The peak is in November."

Deer are most active around dawn and dusk as they look for mates, he said. State police data from 2009-2013 shows most vehicle-deer collisions in November occur from 5-8 a.m. and 5 p.m.-midnight.

"Be aware of the timing and time of day and your surroundings," Jenkins said. "Think about where you see deer and keep that in mind."

Yellow highway signs identify deer crossing hot spots. Stay alert and be cautious as you drive through these areas. At night, use high-beam headlights when appropriate. High beams can help a driver see twice as far.

Should you encounter a deer in the road, slow down but only steer to avoid hitting the animal if it can be done safely. Swerving can confuse the deer even more and increase the likelihood of a crash, Jenkins said. Allow the deer to leave the roadway but keep in mind that other deer may be in the immediate area.

Above all, remember to wear your seat belt. It's the law in Kentucky. Most people injured or killed in vehicle-deer collisions were not wearing a safety belt, according to state police.

The 2,985 vehicle-deer collisions reported last year accounted for less than 3 percent of all vehicle collisions statewide, according to state police data. There were no fatalities resulting from vehicle collisions with deer in the state in 2012 or 2013, and the number of people injured in these types of crashes in Kentucky has decreased every year since 2008.

"We've worked with the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet over the years to identify high-risk areas," Jenkins said. "Transportation crews have cleared areas along the roadways to give motorists a better field of view to see deer and to be more aware of their surroundings."

Biologists estimate Kentucky has about 1 million deer and attribute the increased movement in fall to breeding activity, not hunting pressure. Hunting lowers deer density.

Some of the highest collision rates are found in counties with high deer densities. Boone County led the state the previous five years with an average of 154 vehicle-deer collisions per year followed by Hopkins (116), Campbell (103), Jefferson (100) and Hardin (95) counties, according to state police data.

Of the 10 counties with the highest average of vehicle-deer collisions from 2009-2013, according to state police data, more than half are classified by Kentucky Fish and Wildlife as Zone 1 counties. The department sets deer hunting season dates and bag limits by zone. In a Zone 1 county, a hunter may harvest an unlimited number of does (female deer) so long as they have purchased the appropriate additional deer permits.

"A Zone 1 county is where we're trying to get a reduction in the deer herd," Jenkins said. "We realize there are too many and we're trying to give our hunters ample opportunity to take as many antlerless deer as they can. Does are what drive the population - the more does our hunters can take in Zone 1, the better we do with population control."

More information about vehicle collisions with deer, including statistics and driving tips, is available online at kentuckystatepolice.org/deerauto.htm.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources manages, regulates, enforces and promotes responsible use of all fish and wildlife species, their habitats, public wildlife areas and waterways for the benefit of those resources and for public enjoyment. Project promising for anglers at Cave Run Lake

A habitat improvement project has anglers hoping for their next big catch at Cave Run Lake.

Over the next three years, natural and man-made structures will be sunk at several lake locations. These structures will provide safe cover for small fish and foraging habitat for larger fish.

Fisheries biologists from state and federal agencies are coordinating with sport fishers and volunteers to implement the project.

"The primary goal of the project, which anglers will see, is increased opportunities and places to catch fish," said Tom Timmermann, assistant district biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in the Northeastern Fishery District.

"The structures will promote algae and periphyton growth on submerged surfaces, which will provide a food supply and refuge for small fish and aquatic insects.

"Larger fish will be attracted to the structures as feeding zones, which should be a great area to catch all the sport fish of the lake - bass, muskie and crappie," added Timmermann.

The habitat improvement structures vary in shape, size and material but simple in design.

Wooden pallets, cable spools, concrete blocks, tree stumps and recycled Christmas trees are some of the materials being used to develop these sunken fish attractors. Local businesses and individuals have donated much of the materials being used for the project.

"The pallets are used to create an open cage-like structure with trees strapped inside for added cover," said Pam Martin, fisheries biologist with the U.S. Forest Service, Daniel Boone National Forest.

"Concrete blocks are attached to the cage to keep the structure under water, but the blocks also provide good hiding places for small fish."

Bass, muskellunge and crappie are just a few of the sport fish expected to benefit from the improved habitat at Cave Run. The sunken brush and other material will quickly attract fish to the habitat improvement areas.

Following the recommendations of several anglers, the structures are being placed perpendicular to the shoreline with shorter parallel reefs that create a T shape. The structures will alternate from shallow to deep, with a maximum depth of 20 feet at summer pool level.

"The perpendicular lines will allow fish usage during all stages of lake temperature changes," said Anthony Orr with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"The shallow parallel lines will allow for small fish usage as cover, and the deeper parallel lines will allow for some warmer water cover in the winter months."

The targeted areas for habitat improvement are Clay Lick, Stoney Cove, Adams Point, Scott's Creek, Ramey's Creek, Warix Run, Zilpo Flats, Cassidy's, and Poppin Rock.

The Clay Lick and Stony Cove/Adams Point sites will be completed this year.

"Anglers should expect to see fish in these areas anytime. They should be ready hotspots this coming fall and winter on the lake," said Timmerman.

Anyone interested in donating material or serving as a volunteer for the fisheries project should contact Tom Timmerman at 606-783-8650 or by email at timmermann@ky.gov.

Volunteers currently participating in the project include the Friends of Cave Run, Kentucky Chapter 52 of Muskies Inc., the Kentucky Department of Juvenile Justice, local bass fishers, and private businesses and individuals.

Bone-in Pork Chops with Apples and Onions

Ingredients:

2 Kentucky Proud pork chops, bone-in
Salt and pepper, to taste
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 Kentucky Proud apple, sliced
1 Kentucky Proud onion, sliced
1 cup chicken stock or apple cider, to deglaze
1 tablespoon butter, optional

Directions:

- Pat the pork chops dry with paper towels, and season well with salt and pepper.
- In a large skillet on high heat, heat olive oil and brown the pork chops well, about 3 to 4 minutes per side. At this point, the pork chops will be well browned, but not cooked all the way through.
- Transfer chops to a separate platter.
- Add the apple and onion to the pan, and cook until softened and nicely caramelized.
- Add chicken stock or apple cider, and scrape food morsels from the surface of the pan.
- Nestle the pork chops back into the pan, and bring the mixture to a simmer. Simmer until pork chops are cooked through and season with salt and pepper.
- Add butter to the sauce at the last minute for extra richness, if desired.

Rabbits Make Great Pets

Taking care of rabbits can be fun, interesting, and educational. Rabbits are also fairly easy and economical compared to other pets, and they can teach responsibility to children.

Rabbits require very little space, and they never have to be walked! Cages can be homemade or purchased at a place like Tractor Supply or a farm supply store.

Rabbits are very tolerant to extremely cold weather, but they need some protection from the strong winter winds. Cages may have a nest box, or some boards can be nailed to the west and northwest sides of the cage to serve as a windbreak. Also, rabbits don't like hot weather, so cages should be in an area that has some shade. If the temperature gets above 75 degrees, then rabbits are usually uncomfortable.

Another plus in raising rabbits is the cheap cost of feeding them. A 25-pound bag of rabbit pellets may last 3 or 4 weeks, possibly more.

It depends on how many rabbits an owner has and the size and appetite of the bunnies. Furthermore, it's a good idea to supplement the rabbit pellets with grass, clover, and fruits. Rabbits love apples. Feeding rabbits these extra treats will make a bag of pellets last much longer, and rabbits enjoy something different than the same old food. Fresh water is a must. Water should be changed daily.

Rabbits need something to gnaw on for the health of their teeth. Wooden fruit flavored chew sticks can be purchased at pet stores, or rabbits can be given small limbs or twigs from trees. Wood from apple, pear, or maple trees works very well. Rabbits also love to eat the leaves of apple trees.

An additional way to keep rabbits happy is to not overcrowd them. It's best to keep only one male per cage due to the fact that they may become aggressive towards each other, but 2 female rabbits can live well together. They will even cuddle up against each other in cold weather.

These pets can also give back a useful product of their own. Rabbit manure makes great organic fertilizer and has a high nitrogen content. It's best to let the manure age for 3 months before using it. Fresh manure may contain harmful bacteria that could damage plants. Rabbit manure can work wonders on pumpkins, tomatoes, and other plants.

Rabbits are pets that should not be overlooked. They are cute, cheap, and fun.

Gas Buddy

Kentucky, October 20- Average retail gasoline prices in Kentucky have fallen 12.8 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $3.00/g yesterday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 2,623 gas outlets in Kentucky. This compares with the national average that has fallen 6.1 cents per gallon in the last week to $3.12/g, according to gasoline price website GasBuddy.com.

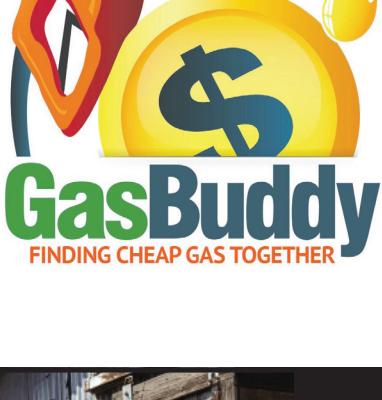

Including the change in gas prices in Kentucky during the past week, prices yesterday were 37.9 cents per gallon lower than the same day one year ago and are 35.9 cents per gallon lower than a month ago. The national average has decreased 22.9 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 23.1 cents per gallon lower than this day one year ago.

"The national average again saw a hefty decline over the last week, and we now stand a mere dime away from seeing prices nationally average under $3/gallon," said GasBuddy.com senior petroleum analyst Patrick DeHaan.

"The national average stands now at its lowest point since January 18, 2011, and by the end of this week, it could stand at its lowest since late 2010. Every day, Americans are spending over $100 million less on their gasoline purchases than they did a year ago, some of which will be injected back into the economy in other forms, and with the economic concerns taking shape lately, it could help jolt things back in the right direction. I still do believe that the national average will break the $3/gallon mark by around Election Day- the timing is ironic, considering the drop has nothing to do with Election Day and everything to do with current ongoings, such as a price war between some OPEC members and jitters about the health of the global economy," DeHaan noted.

Time to plant spring-flowering bulbs

ERIC BAKER

Agriculture Extension Agent

Fall is the time to think about all those flowers we associate with spring: daffodils, crocus, and other easy-to-grow flowering bulbs. If you aren't growing any spring-flowering bulbs in your landscape, you are missing out on some easy-to-grow plants that provide early color to your garden.

These bulbs are planted in fall because it corresponds to the end of their natural dormancy. Most of these plants begin root growth in fall, followed by a cool stratification period necessary for proper flower development and then shoot growth in late winter and early spring.

No matter which bulbs you select, remember that the largest bulbs will produce the greatest show next spring. However, smaller bulbs will still produce some flowers, and these may be the best choice for mass planting or naturalizing. Avoid any bulbs that feel lightweight as these may have severely dried during storage.

It's important to plant flowering bulbs at the proper depth, so inquire about plant depth at the nursery or follow the label directions. A light application of bone meal fertilizer at planting is often recommended, though probably not always necessary. Most bulbs do not need fertilization until growth emerges in the spring. When you see plants emerging, apply 1 to 2 pounds per 100 square feet of a complete fertilizer (like 10-10-10 blend).

Once flowering occurs, remove the faded blooms, but don't remove the foliage. The leaves produce sugars and other compounds necessary for the bulb to overwinter and bloom again the next spring. Most bulbs will enter dormancy in late spring or early summer and will renew growth, starting with the root system in the fall.

Kentucky Beef Conference

The Kentucky Beef Conference is scheduled for Thursday, October 30 at the Fayette County Extension Office, Red Mile Road (behind Central Equipment). Registration begins at 9:00 a.m. and the program runs 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

The event is entitled "Today's Challenges, Tomorrow's Opportunities" and provides valuable information to cattle producers across the state. This year's conference will cover cattle marketing and long term trends, getting cows bred, cow herd expansion, and receiving/testing new replacements.

Registration is $10.00 per person to cover the cost of a buffet lunch and refreshments. Please pre-register by calling the Extension Office 723-4557 by October 27.

If you are interested in carpooling to the meeting, let us know.

American Legion, busy in the community

Clara Riddle, from the American Legion Ladies' Auxiliary Post 79 presented Estill County Marching band director Jason Bowles with a check for $50.

Christina Officer, Sergeant of Arms of the Ladies' Auxiliary, presented a $25 donation to the girls' volleyball team.

Biggest Fish Award went to Phillip Treadway and Randy Harrison with a two pound catch.

The sons of the American Legion also spent Saturday picking up trash from Michael's all the way to the county line on Saturday. They collected a mountain of trash.

Chilly blustery conditions did not stop local fisherman from participating in a bass tournament a couple of weeks ago. The event was sponsored by the Sons of American Legion and the Estill County Fiscal Court. Results are as follows:

1st place: Bobby Gentry and Gary Gentry - 4 lbs
2nd place: Everett Murphy and Larry Floyd - 2.55 lbs

3rd place: Joby and Kenny Combs - 2.48 lbs
4th place Todd Durham and Paul Luster - 2.25 lbs.
5th place Shane Hurst and Jon Worley - 2.14 lbs.
The biggest fish award went to Phillip Treadway and Randy Harrison with a two pound catch.
The total catch by all participants was about 18 pounds.

How to Support a Loved One Who's Fighting Cancer

For Breast Cancer Awareness Month, Woman Living with Incurable Cancer Offers 4 Suggestions

Shy about asking, "What's the etiquette for supporting my loved one, friend or colleague in their battle against cancer?" many people simply avoid the question altogether - and offer nothing.

"It's okay to wonder, and it's okay to ask. Be direct!" says Jane Schwartzberg, who has been battling stage 4 metastatic cancer for several years. She's the co-author with Marcy Tolkoff Levy of "Naked Jane Bares All," www.nakedjanebaresall.com, which shares her story with candor and humor.

Jane was a 31-year-old newlywed when she was first diagnosed with breast cancer. She underwent treatment and eventually was declared cancer free. She moved on with her life, giving birth to two children and launching a technology company. Then, when she was 42, the cancer returned. She's now 45.

"I'm a fighter, and the support I've received from my family and friends has given me an immeasurable amount of strength, without which I don't know what I would do," Schwartzberg says.

What are some suggestions for providing support? She offers these:

- Do it without any expectations or requirements for a response. "I'm often asked, 'What can I do to help?'" she says. "What I've suggested: Be in my life at my pace, let me take the lead; make your presence, availability and support known, but do it without any expectations or requirements for a response."
- Embrace their big dream, even if it doesn't sound realistic. During a very low point, Schwartzberg was asked by a friend: If you could have anything, swinging for the fences, what would help you get out of this pit? Without skipping a beat, she answered, "I want to take [comedian] Larry David out to lunch." As impossible as it seemed, her friend encouraged her to write to the co-creator of "Seinfeld" -- and he accepted.

"As terrible as having terminal cancer is, there is that undeniable quality of embracing every moment, including asking your heroes out to lunch," Schwartzberg says. "Cancer brings out the boldness in people, which may entail a dream vacation to Hawaii. Don't be afraid to embrace their wishes."

• Don't hesitate to say, "You look beautiful," when health has returned. After her chemotherapy treatments ended, Jane slowly started looking like her old self - healthy Jane, not cancer Jane. Part of reengaging with life is caring about the superficial things, at least to some extent. On the unforgettable day she met Larry David, the maître d had beforehand told her that she looked beautiful, to which Jane responded, "You have no idea how much I appreciate that."

• Don't sugarcoat it. "If you want to really infuriate me, you'll tell me that this whole mess is beshert, Yiddish for 'meant to be' - that it's all part of a plan from a higher power," she says. "Maybe terminal cancer is part of some crazy plan, but I promise you that these are the last things I want to hear from anyone."

Don't sugarcoat or try to put a positive spin on what's going on - in fact, it's more of a comfort to Jane when others acknowledge that her situation stinks and that she is looking at a life that's far different from, and likely to be shorter than, anything she'd imagined.

About Jane Schwartzberg

Jane Schwartzberg, 45, is the co-author of the new book, "Naked Jane Bares All," www.nakedjanebaresall.com, the many-layered story - told with humor and candor -- of how she learned to embrace life when she was down for the count. Jane is a financial services executive and founder and former CEO of a start-up technology company.

"Naked Jane Bares All" was co-written by veteran writer Marcy Tolkoff Levy. Following a year of interviews and many late nights with Jane, her family and friends, Marcy formed the foundation of a colorful, poignant and even humorous collection of vignettes about how Jane continues to get back up when life throws her down.

I Never Knew What BRAVERY WAS Until I Saw It In MY FRIEND

School fundraisers that involve food must meet the new federal nutrition guidelines; state hasn't sought an exemption

by Melissa Patrick

Fundraising with foods that don't meet schools' new federal nutrition guidelines will not be allowed during the school day in Kentucky, Valarie Honeycutt Spears reports for the Lexington Herald-Leader.

One of the most popular fundraisers for schools is the sale of candy, which formerly could be sold after lunch. Those days are over in Kentucky; the state has not requested an exemption to hold such fundraisers.

Fundraisers using foods like cookie dough and frozen pizza, which are meant to be eaten at home, have not been restricted and there are no fundraising restrictions on foods that meet the Smart Snacks standards, the Herald-Leader reports.

Schools are adapting to these changes. One in Lexington reports moving to fundraisers that focus on physical fitness rather than food, and Kona Ice, a firm that sells shaved ice, now offers products that meet and exceed the new standards for snacks, company spokesman Jamie Izaks told the newspaper.

Marty Flynn, executive director of the Kentucky School Nutrition Association, told the paper, "Regulations that stem from the Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010, although well-intentioned, have been enacted too quickly, and without attention to the availability of acceptable products, acceptance of students and the financial consequences to the self-sustaining school meal programs. Many food service directors have indicated that for the first time in many years their programs lost money and have been faced with declining participation."

PLOWMAN SAYS VOTE FOR COMBS

My name is Sharla Webb Plowman and I began working at the courthouse in June of 1994 as a Deputy Circuit Clerk under Lena B. Henry. My main duties were to issue driver's licenses and to contact people in Estill County when they were called for jury duty. By doing these two jobs I met a lot of people over the years. I was always proud to say I worked for Lena B., the first female Circuit Clerk, who held that position for over 40 years.

In June of 2005 I was given the opportunity to work at the Estill County Attorney's Office with the first female Estill County Attorney Heather Combs. In that job I learned so much about the court system and how it works, from issuing subpoenas, to recovering cold checks, to filing complaints, to just listening to people and sometimes telling them things they did not want to hear. It was all part of the job but we wanted people to have a voice.

Then in January of 2007 Heather became the first female Commonwealth Attorney for the 23rd Circuit. I work there now and my title is Crime Victim's Advocate. Have we always made the correct decision? No, but we have tried our very best. This is why I am supporting Heather Combs as the next and first female Circuit Judge for the 23rd Circuit. I have seen the compassion as well as the firmness that this job takes, it is not easy seeing people you know and even family members go to jail but it is part of the job. Her compassion and firmness would make her a good Judge.

Please remember on November 4, to vote for my friend Heather Combs as your next Circuit Judge!
